

2019 Shine School Media Awards

Imagine a teacher with talented students thinking of ways to help them achieve their dreams.

Imagine a young student with a dream – to write, to design, to publish, to build websites, to create apps, to develop new ways of communication.

Imagine a young student winning an award that can take them to a place where they can access the opportunities to help them achieve their dream.

Imagine hundreds of secondary school children and their teachers from all across the UK travelling to Stationers' Hall in the City of London to receive their awards and celebrate their talent and achievements.

The Shine School Media Awards are an exciting opportunity for all secondary schools in the UK to enter their school newspaper, magazine, website or podcast created within the context of their academic curriculum or as an after-school hobby.

Many of the secondary school children who enter the Shine Awards aspire to be newscasters, journalists, writers, illustrators, designers, cartoonists or photographers. Others want to manage content and become the project managers, the publishers, the innovators and the entrepreneurs of the future.

Every summer on a day filled with activity and excitement, the Shine Awards take place in Stationers' Hall to acknowledge students and their exceptional creative talent.

Shine supports the art of communication by encouraging exceptional language skills, imagery, photography, cartoons, graphic books, and newspapers.

Shine provides guidelines to help students have a better understanding of the importance of originality and copyright.

Shine can open doors to a student's future – connecting entrants with influencers in the worlds of communication, marketing, publishing and journalism.

Shine supports the younger generation searching for careers in the media and communication industries.

Shine is encouraging the next generation to devise, create and manage content and communication in the best and most imaginative way possible.

The Shine School Media Awards are now inviting entries for the 2019 awards.

Winners at the Shine Awards Day

Blogosphere editor Alice Audley delivering the Shine keynote address about seizing opportunities

Getting involved: Awards Day at Stationers' Hall

A full account of the awards can be found on the Shine website:
www.shine-schoolawards.org

Email us for more information:
shine@stationers.org

Our sponsors

HEADLINE SPONSORS

MEDIA AND TECHNICAL SPONSORS

